Condition of Banks September 12.

Interim Between June 30 and That | Coalers and the Cotton Carrying Date a Saving Instead of Spending Period.

BY I. A. FLEMING.

The long-expected "call" for a statement of condition of banks under supervision of the controller of the currency was made this morning, the date being at the close of business Sep-

The interim covers the height of the vacation period, the spending and not the saving period, but this year has been an exception to all others.

Whether the fact that it is the centennial thrift year or for other causes the people of Washington have been more saving than ever before, else money has come in in large amounts from the outside-the former probability being the more plausible.

Uncertainty in the departments, the fact that it is a presidential campaign year, depression in realty and other influences may have assisted.

Between June 30, the date of the pre-$600,000 tax money to the Treasury Dement deposits, many Washington institutions have made gains, and the final figures will unquestionably show that Washington has made heavy savfinal figures will unquestionably snow that Washington has made heavy savings in these spending months.

If the figures are maintained in the combined report of all institutions of the country, the figures will tell the story of more money in the United States than ever before, and this is probably a fact, despite the enormous loans to foreign countries, which, by the way, have been largely expended in this country.

The Riggs National Bank will unquestionably lead all others, being near the top mark on deposits with $10,380,000, a gain of $1,184,177.

The American Security follows with a gain of $627,618.

Other gains reported were as follows: Munsey Trust Company, $105,214; Metropolitan National, $378,006; Federal National, $23,803; Franklin National, $77,775; American National, $162,831.

The Union Trust Company lost $102,000 in deposits, and the Continental Trust Company $120,000 in the interim between the calls. The full report will be completed early next week.

BIG SALES, HIGH PRICES RECORD OF PAST WEEK

Operations on New York Stock Exchange Show Unusually Large Totals.

NEW YORK, September 16.-Basic conditions as indicated by the state of the financial, industrial and commercia markets seemed to favor this week's remarkable operations on the stock exchange, in which daily totals ran from ,000,000 to almost 1,700,000 shares, to the accompaniment of higher prices and many new maximums.

Crop prospects were almost the only adverse feature, and these appeared to be ignored or discounted in the gen eral advance of rails, including Pacifics and grangers, some of which ascended to best prices of the year, while Union Pacific rose to the highest quotation since the outbreak of the war.

Record Prices the Bule.

Record prices of the week and for all time to date were made by such favor ites as United States Steel and Read ing, while over a dozen less important leaders, including industrials and metals, also rose to unprecedented quotations. Increased or extra dividends and initial disbursements by some companies engaged in the fulfillment of war contracts were of material assistwar contracts were of material assist-ance to the rise. There was a marked revival of speculative interest in the munitions and motors, based on excel-lent financial statements and the prob-ability of additional business. The semi-annual report of the American Smelting and Refining Company, show-ing enormous earnings, apart from its Mexican properties, gave impetus to the coppers.

Receipts of Gold Not a Factor. Gold in round amounts was again re ceived from abroad, but for unexplained reasons the metal does not figure in the statements of local financial institutions, whose reserves have suffered an extensive contraction during the past

Negotiations for further loans to France, Russia and other European countries are still under way, and the course of the foreign exchange markets was extremely irregular, Russian and Italian remittances weakening, with some shading of francs and hardening of marks.

AFFECTS WHEAT PRICES

Chicago Market Feels Effects of Increased Selling Pressure Brought About by Erroneous Rumor.

CHICAGO, September 15 .- Increased elling pressure on wheat, with consequent lower prices, resulted today to a considerable extent from uneasiness of holders regarding British trade restrictions against neutrals. It was not until back that any authoritative opinions were forthcoming that the restrictions did not apply to wheat. The failure of foreign markets to respond to yesterrobably tomorrow; frost in exposed day's upturn here tended further to cause weak owners to liquidate rather than to carry risks over until Monday central Tennessee, Illinois and Wisconsin.

With the exception of unsettled weather and local rains in the region of the great lakes, the weather will be fair tonight and tomorrow throughout the states east of the Mississippi river.

The temperature will be lower tonight in the Atlantic states, and it rise in the lower Ohio valley.

Frost will probably occur tonight in exposed places in the interior of the middle Atlantic states, New England and the upper Ohio valley.

News of a Teuton victory in Rumania that prain was unaffected by the British orders relative to neutral trade tended to cause a fresh setback in prices. The millers' strike in Great Britain was also a bearish factor. Prices closed unsettled 1½ to 2 net lower, with December at 148½ to 148% and May at 148 to 148%.

Later, the corn market recovered a little with wheat. Prices closed nervous at ½ % net decline.
